Gen. Hooker at the Union League.

Gen. Joseph Hooker visited the Union League Club, of New York, on Thursday evening, and was welcomed by a very large attendance of members, in whose behalf Mr. Sturges, the President, addressed him.

Gen. Hooker, in reply, observed that the Loyal League were not aware of the services they had rendered the army. They had rendered good service, and for this the army had strong in front. The fighting is now nearly closed. There will be a few spasmodic plunges, but they are the natural manifestations of dying. The Government has been slow; the people have been patient, and have led the Administration; but the latter has come along, and, on the whole, done tolerably well. It is absurd to suppose the soldiers can vote other than one way. They will vote as they have fought, to put down the rebellion, but England. She has furnished the rebels with all their arms and clothing, and for these she holds a mortgage on the whole South. I don't think she will undertake to foreclose it. General H. further remarked that he had at no time felt any doubt of the success of the war for the Union. There had been mistakes and mismanagement in its conduct, yet the Union arms had made steady progress, so that the close of each year had seen the area of the rebellion narrowed and its relative power materially weakened. He confidently believed that we were now very near the end—nearer than most of us believed. But he would have no overtures made to the rebel Chief; at the proper time, they would signify their readiness to give it up. The time to begin negotiating was when we had finished the fight.

It is folly to talk of it! We must always keep our enemies and sweep away the causes of the rebellion. The Constitution must be interpreted in accordance with the principles of humanity, nor can we have permanent peace till we do so. We must not make a peace such a way that another war will break out again within ten years. We have been across enough to our enemies—even to a friend—and they invariably construed our language to weakness.

The General was frequently cheered during the progress of his remarks, and at the close he was greeted with prolonged and hearty applause.

MICHIGAN STATE FAIR

A Few Notes not Best of Today

Kalamazoo, Sept. 24.

The Michigan State Agricultural closed its proceedings last evening amidst a severe rain storm, which tendency to materially curtail the attendance during the week. As I dispatches, the fair, taken as a whole, a success beyond precedent. The each day was very large. On Thursday was immense, numbering over twenty thousand souls. No man acquainted with present condition of our country, has been placed in the midst of the throng here on Thursday, would have dreamt that we were carrying on the most glorious and dazzling war of which history record—a war not of nationalities, kindred, and from that fact, all the heroes. Had he watched the faces and scanned them closely, it would have entered his imagination that the scarcely a man, woman or child present had some blighted representative in the fire, ready to welcome at any moment for the love of country, the swift messenger of sternly. Care had drawn picture on the brows of very few persons. Even "the outer signs and the happy woe" were but very few. The Americans are a sympathetic, and, at the same relative race. Death raises her standard, dark and gloomy—to-morrow it will be down, and gives way for the more joyful banner of thoughts, mirth. And live a life-time in a twelve-month.

The exhibition just closed shows great interest in matters pertaining agriculture. Progress, very decided, indeed in everything we see here. The reaper, the mower, the plow, the cultivator is not the same implement that won our admiration at the same class of fairs ten years ago, nor even five years. In each you see marked evidence of new developments of Yankee genius and creation. Ten or more years ago, who ever produced the mower, the plow, the reaper was supposed to have been bold. A very few years more, and the country and now—overlooked the domain east of the agricultural world, and the said "Enarks!" I see here the combination extended so as to embrace the reaper, mower, rake and binder. What next? A question may be asked with the expectation some tangible and surprising results soon reach our ears. The same progress apparent in almost everything I see here. The combination to which I have just referred was brought here by Emerson & Rockford, proprietors of the John H. Gibbs. The new feature—the binder, most ingenious machine. By the movement of a crank it gathers up the ripe asisted bunches, and binds them, forming a knot that will not untie. It would be well to see other machines embraced in the cause of farm economy, but the victories of Mars are so much more interesting to your readers than those in the field of arms and mechanism that I will go no further in that direction.

In kitchen economy, the clothes washer seems to attract the most attention. There were about a dozen represented on hand, but the one which seems favorite, and which in fact to me, the present is the Universal Clothes Wringing Implement, to me, seemed better adapted than any other one of existing R. C. Browning, 347 Broadway, New York, the inventor.

In sewing hall, sewing machines seemed to be the leading and attractive features. I sent you by telegram the fact that the Grover & Baker were awarded first premiums under different heads. There were others which deserve mention. The Wilcox & Gibbs machine, I know, is a general success, the people Mr. and Mrs. Converse here, had his crowd of admirers. The machine is a single action, very in consequence, easily operated and orderly, and what is of much importance, well regulated household, guns-wit or without. By careful, intelligent use, it is very easy to determine which best machine, and this is what the promoters of the Wilcox & Gibbs invited good reputation of the machine is drawing, as their extensive sale in the clearly demonstrated.

Another sewing machine, and of innocent invention, on exhibition here, which attracted universal attention, was the "Wet Sewing Machine," represented Mr. Farmer, of Chicago. It took the premium as a manufacturing machine, must confess that after witnessing Farmer's illustrations and listening to his explanations of his machine, I was very impressed in its favor. He practically illustrated the power of his machine, by sewing leather of one, three, four and six thicknesses, from one to the other without intermission, making nearly as thick of solid leather. Under this heading the machine seemed to be a rare, if not unique. Mr. Farmer is the Western representative, and is located at Chicago, which is now regarded as the Western machine center.

The famous Wheeler & Wilson Sewing machine was also represented by Mr. E. F. Detroit.

Musical instruments, especially piano were in great numbers. Mr. Ray, your famous Cincinnati "Temple of Music" enough instruments here to a wholesale establishment in such town as New York, Cincinnati, Philadelphia, The first thing he did, in order to make his generosity and loyalty, was to bring into the same treasury $500, which was afterwards added to another $1000, amounting to $1000, to the same noble charity. The managers of the Fair, for his consideration, sent a very complimentary letter to Mr. Reed, to which he responded in some terms. Mr. Reed received a sum, in fact, about all that was best suited for his excellent pianos, organs, &c.

Among the most gratifying contribution to the Fair was the handsome sum of $100 from Gen. Lewis Cass. The donation was accompanied by an autograph letter from the venerable statesman, which was afterwards sold at auction for a sum.

There were many other articles of direct interest to the farmer and mechanic on exhibition here, of which I should be glad to speak at length, but I am admonished by experience that the room for these in the "Famous" columns is just now exhausted.

I do not like to make complaints, but compelled to say that the facilities afforded to the representatives of the press were such as their arduous and difficult demands. The press arranged an instant part in getting up news, arts, &c. as they did and they would universally be satisfied if not too much time was expected that during their proceeding the members of the Executive Board should afford every facility to correspondents in the performance of their duty. This they did. To demand to particularists, as in instances reporters were refused admittance to the judges' stand, and at other times required to prove that that was the only place where the information they sought could be obtained; and this, too, by men who had no connection with the committee or any friends, were allowed to remain. I do like to complain of Mr. Johnston. His careful, pains-taking and gentlemanly character; but his system of keeping entries is execrable. They would puzzle a Philadelphia lawyer to penetrate their mystery and it takes a reporter a good share of time to study them out. I would commend to Mr. Johnston's study and investigation the admirable system practised by Mr. H. C. Chapman, Secretary of the Illinois Agricultural Society. With just the labor he can make the thing as plain as "pike staff." I shall look for improvement in the future.

"No more at present." H. H. C.

taken by both armies since the commencement of the present campaign. The change to be made may for man and privately commissioned to make preliminary arrangements to effect the exchange.

W. A. Reid, accompanied by an escort of mounted men and an ambulance.

Gen. J. B. Hood, commanding Confederate Army:

GENERAL:—As I engaged yesterday, I come to an actual exchange of prisoners, man and equal for equal, differences or losses to no mode up according to the exchange of 1863. I have appointed one of my Instructor Generals, Lieut. Col. W. W. Warner, to put out this exchange, and will answer one hundred and eighty-five enlisted men officers and nine hundred and seventy men

I take it for granted you will do the same with yours. In other words, for these men

I am not willing to take equivalents belonging to other armies than my own who belong to regiments whose times

By your laws all men eligible for service are facto soldiers, and a very good ones it is; and, if needed for civil duty, they simply detailed soldiers. We found in last about a thousand of these fellows,

I am satisfied they are fit subjects of change; and if you will release an equal number of our poor fel ows at Anderson will gather these together and send them prisoners. They seem to have been designed for railroad and shop duty, and I do not them an equal number of my trained men, but will take men belonging to part of the United States army subject to your control.

We hold a good many of your men soldiers, who are really stragglers, and would be a good offset to such of stragglers and foragers as your cavalry up of our men; but I am constrained to these men, though sorely against the the benefit of their character, pretended real.

As soon as Col. Warner agrees upon a points with the officer you name, I will the prisoners to the places appointed, recall those not beyond Chattanooga;

you may count on about 2,000 in the ag-gate, and get ready to give like names

I am willing to appoint Roush and Reid or Jonesboro is the place of exchange also for the place of delivering the citimale and female, of Atlanta, who start to South.

I am, with respect, yours truly,

W. T. SHERMAN, Major General Commanding.

Brigadier General Govan is at Chatta-no and can be brought back. I would like Stonehouse and Capt. B. S.

GEN. HOOD TO GEN. SHERMAN.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,

IN THE FIELD, Sept. 11, 1864.

Major General W. T. Sherman, command-

United States forces:

SIR—I had the honor on the 9th instant propose to you an exchange of prisoner officers and men captured by both arms since the commencement of the prese nent campaign.

At the meeting on the 11th last, between our respective staff officers, Major J. G.

Eustis and Lieut.-Col. Warner, I. G. inter-ed to arrange such preliminaries as the time and place of delivery, &c., a communication was received from you rendering, I regret, inform you, an exchange of prisoners, impossible.

Your refusal to receive in exchange your soldiers belonging to "regiments which times are out, and who have been discharged" disclosed a fixed purpose on part of your government to doom to hapless captivity those prisoners whose terms of service have expired, or will soon expire.

The new principle which you seek to impose on the cartel of our respective governments, as well as on the laws and custom of war, will not be sanctioned by me.

Captives taken in war, who owe no obligations to the captors, must stand on the same equal footing. The duration of these terms of service can certainly impose no duties on the captors. The volume of war, and the concert for the war, will be captured in war, are equally subject to all the burdens, and equally entitled all the rights secured by the laws of nations.

This principle is distinctly conceded in the cartel entered into by our respective governments, and is sanctioned by honor, justice, and the public law of all civilized nations.

My offer to exchange the prisoners captured during the campaign precludes an intent on my part in the delivery to discriminating between your prisoners, as all would have been delivered; and even had it been intended such discrimination between your men whose terms of service had and had not expired, would have been impossible, and could not have been effected, as I had no reliable means of ascertaining what proportion your men were entitled to their discharge.

As was proper, I notified my Government of my offer to you to effect an exchange of prisoners captured during this campaign and not only was by action approved, but my Government placed at my entire disposal for immediate exchange, man for man all the prisoners at Andersonville.

I have the honor to renew my offer to exchange prisoners as proposed in my first communication, and remain your obedient servant,

J. B. HOOD, General.

THE EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS GOING ON.

MACON, Ga., September 17, 1864.—A special exchange of two thousand prisoners has been agreed upon by Gen. W. T. Sherman and seven hundred Yankees will be sent forward to-night for that purpose.

THE REBELS IN THE BRITISH IRON CLAD MARKET.

Contracts for Railroad iron and Plate for Iron-Clad Ships.

[Correspondence of the N. Y. Herald.]

London, Sept. 10, 1864.

This week I have news for you oligo-cratic source—that an agent of Jeff. Davis' government has lately arrived from the South armed with extraordinary powers, and on special mission. His mission is iron. He has negotiated for several thousand tons of railroad iron—made on purpose for the Southern railroads, to renovate and repair the permanent way of the leading lines thoroughout the South—a matter of vital importance in conducting their military operations.

The rails are light—not over half the weight of ordinary rails. They are slender, and go much further, besides being more easily handled and laid down. They are to be taken in small cargoes at a time and run the blockade to Wilmington. The payment for these supplies is to be in coin, and to be paid in gold and silver, at 100 per cent. interest.

These vessels are to be have powerful engines (oscillating), and be able to run sixteen knots a hour and carry six guns each. They are to be ready by next April, to commence a new campaign on the ocean, and to be able to sink anything that carries the Yankee flag." One of these is to cruise the Pacific coast, among the California gold ships and China merchantmen.

Full arrangements are making to have sup-piles of coal in different parts of the world, with two or three steamers from this side.

One, I see, has just left Baltimore with a quin-tasie, say they will complete the rail-

Yankee commerce, what has not already been done by Semmes; and then there will be a chance for peace sharing the communal and monetary classes, underwritten, so that no Washington government can withstand it, no matter who is President.

The most important article heretofore sent into the Southern colony by blockade runners have been captured and captured.

you may have power, influence, wealth, office, medicines, every shape, and every kind of clothing. This will be done, says the man of Wilmington, "with the same spirit that he could not last six months longer." Consider, however, simple and naked people, but strong horses are required to the arrangements for a supply of iron rails, iron plates, and the fortifying works. Two of the engines are contracted for Civil battles, and the other, it is believed, will be built on the Thames. The engine, etc., are to be paid for as delivered. It is owing to peculiar circumstances that have become possessed of this information and you may depend on it as implicitly as you can find detailed under the signature of G. F. Davis himself.

A good deal of anxiety is expressed as to supply of men to send up to sustain the waste of the Southern armies, the most of the boys enlisted becoming invalids in two or three months if not killed, wounded or captured. They rely very largely on desertion and sickness at the North during the next six months.

BALTIMORE: PROBLEMS OF THE ARMY—GROWTH OF REGIMENTS—ARMED SIGNALS IN THE 20TH ILLINOIS.

[From our Special Correspondent]
In Front of Petersburg, Va., Sept. 11th, 1864.

The result of the Chicago Convention, the platform adopted, and the nomination McClellan for the Presidency, has been digested by the soldiers in the field; we have also read General McClellan's letter of acceptance, and let me assure not only the readers of the Tribune but the readers Jeff Davis' organ in Chicago, that McClellan, the hero who has won no battle and captured no town, except Trenton, New Jersey, will appear soon as Senator when the result of the November election is known.

We have canvassed the camps to a considerable extent, and at some points election has already been held, in order to探探 popular feeling, and we find, in every instance that a seven-eighths vote is always given to the "cruise," and it will be a great mistake (to use a nautical phrase) if the haughty of victory does not bring us up to the "wharf of peace," without compromising the honor of the Administration. You or your readers, need not imagine that the 10th Army Corps is alone represented, for we hold a state without the least possibility of a refutation, that the whole "Army of the Potomac" will give a large majority for Abraham Lincoln as the next President.

It will be safe to admit that Gen. B. McClellan would have been a strong candidate had his friends given him a better foot hold, but at present it is too slippery and insecure to trust. The platform is of poor material and not put right.

The commander of an Eastern regiment lately told me that six officers in the regiment who had openly declared "I support McClellan for the Presidency before the Chicago Convention, had now, after reading the articles of the platform on which his election should be based, turned complete around, and would not vote for him under any circumstances. It, perhaps, does not become me to decant as freely on political matters, being no politician, but I cannot help giving leave to the above named facts, especially for the benefit of the sanguine supporters of "Little Mac."

The casualties in the 20th Illinois Volunteers, the only regt. at representing the State in the army operating before Richmond for the past ten days, are as follows:

Edward Woodward, private, Co. I, wounded left side.
John W. Bang, private, Co. I, killed.
Francis M. Paxton, private, Co. I, wounded left foot.
Charles N. Root, private, Co. D, killed.
Henry Erdmann, private, Co. H, wounded left side.
Henry Hammons, private, Co. B, wounded right hand.

All of the above named wounded are doing well.

Fifty-four men, whose time has expired, were mustered out a few days since, and are on their way home. The regiment expect to reach home in time for the November election, and the prospect is deemed good.

Col. Joshua B. Howell, our old Brigade commander, but lately in command of the 3d Division, 10th Army Corps, met with sad accident on the night of the 12th instant, occasioned by his horse falling with him, whereby he received injuries that caused his death on the 14th. He received the best care and attention at the camp of the 20th Illinois, until the spirit of the brave and patriotic officer and soldier winged its way to the mansions prepared for it, eternal life.

CHICAGO.
